

UKG TeleStaff and UKG Ready Interface

Seamlessly connecting you with the information and tools you need to work more effectively

Now you can share data and streamline processes quickly, easily, and seamlessly through one integrated solution. The UKG TeleStaff™/UKG Ready™ interface enables you to extend the benefits of workforce management to your entire organization — across all departments — through one integrated platform. This interface simplifies the exchange of employee, accrual, and roster data to easily unify systems, saving your people significant time and effort. The result: a streamlined workflow that reduces errors and decreases the waiting time for access to information.

How does it work?

The interface uses predefined data fields ready for import and export to make easy work of pulling and passing employee, accrual, and roster data — saving your people the time-consuming work of dual data entry. The application programming interface (API) enables applications to communicate with each other and transfer data.
